Many New Buildings on East Side: Bassett Gets Control of Theater.

A concerted effort to center the business section along North Stanton street, between San Antonie street and Main street, has been developing during the past mouth. Property owners in the sociales east side business district, cast of Mesa avenue, are planting to improve their property, guilted, east of Mesa avenue, are planting to improve their property, guilted, east of Mesa avenue, are planting to improve their property, guilted, east of Mesa avenue, are planting to improve their property, guilted, east of Mesa avenue, and real estate trading in the east side business district has been unusually scrive during the past month, and many new buildings have been announced for this section.

The boom for the east side was given an impetus Priday when it was reported that Charles N. Bassett, who owns much property in that district in the Texas Grand inester property on Texas atreet, near the Campbell street corner, and that the Iheater building might be converted into a business building. Mr. Hassett was at his ranch Friday, but a close business friend of his, while admitting that Mr. Bassett had bought stock in the theater stock at present, said he had no intention of making a business building of it.

no intention of making a business building of it.

Postoffice Located There.

The boom for the east side district started when the Central investment commany was organized to purchase the site for the new postoffice building, at the corner of Mills and Stanton streets, and deliver it to the government upon the payment of a nominal price, the difference to be made up by the company in order to locate the $100,000 postoffice building in that part of the city. The Stanton street cur line to connect the Boulovard lines with San Antonio street was also made possible through the efforts of this company, in order that the traffic from the residential district might be brought down Stanton street instead of uniconding at the transfer plane, as was the custom before the Stanton street line was built.

Start Work Soon.

Stort line was built.

Start Work Soon.

The new postoffice building is expected to be started within the new year, as the deed has been accepted and the transfer of the site to the government practically completed. On the opposite carner of Mills and Standing, the southwest corner, Mesars, Roberts and Sanner have announced.

Lightbody to Build.

The Texas Bank and Trust company, having taken over the first floor of the Stevens building, at the corner of Texas and Mesa avenue, R. C. Lightbody has bought the property at the southeast corner of Texas and Stanton streets, now occupied by the Southwestern Taiking Machine company's store, and has announced that he will erect a building for his businass as soon as his present lease expires. C. N. Bassett, who owns the novrheam corper of this street intersection, is also reported to have made plans for erecting a big store building on this corner, to be five stories high. Shimmenthal Bros, whose present store has been leased to the Woolworth a and to cent store company, are reported to be planning to occupy the first floor of the new Bassett building, when it is erected.

Shelton-Payne Building.

Shelton-Payne Building.

The Shelton-Payne Arms company has purchased the northeast corner at Texas and kainsa streets and will erect a store building there at once Prims are now being drawn for it and it will coat $20,000. Goldoft Bros. bought the opposite corner recently for $47,500 and will improve the one-story brick building which now occupies the corner. B. Klein is building a one-story brick building on the south-west corner of this street intersection, and J. E. Morgan has built the one-story brick building, which occupies the fourth corner of this street intersection, within the past year.
